Continuing Care

If your needs are more complicated, or specialist care is required, our continuing care teams can provide clinical support. This care can be provided for a range of needs including long term conditions such as Dementia, Parkinsons or Multiple Sclerosis, palliative and end of life care, rehabilitation from head and spinal injuries, home ventilation and respiratory support, learning or mental health disabilities or at home renal care. Our teams are coordinated by a lead nurse who meets regularly with your healthcare consultants, practitioners, you and your clinical care team to make sure the care you receive meets your preferences and choices. As well as being trained in line with all national care standards, the team we provide will also receive training specific to your clinical needs, so we can be sure you are in the best hands. With the advancement of technology, and a real governmental push towards care in the community, we are proud that we can now help hundreds of clients with extremely complex care needs return to the comfort of their own homes. Receiving one to one care in this way better meets your physical, emotional and psychological needs by allowing you better choice in your care and far more independence. If you feel you need a little extra help with day to day tasks, like going out to see friends, doing the shopping, getting ready in the morning, going to bed at night, or simply so you know there is someone there with you during the day, we may be an answer in South Yorkshire.

Funding Your Care

Direct Payments

If you need care in your own home you may be eligible to receive payments from social services. Direct payments are monetary payments by local councils direct to individuals who have been assessed as needing care services, including those that find themselves caring for others. Direct payments help people who want to manage their own support to improve their quality of life. They are designed to promote independence, choice and inclusion by enabling people to purchase the assistance or service that the council would otherwise provide, in order to live in their own homes, be fully involved in family and community life and to engage in work, education and leisure.

The government is eager to increase the number of people who receive direct payments, thereby increasing the number of people have access to the benefits that they bring. As such social services departments are now duty bound to consider direct payments for almost all service users who have been assessed as needing care.

What are the benefits of Direct Payment?

The direct payment system allows you to:

- Have a greater input into what care you need
- Decide who you want to provide that care
- Arrange services and staff at times more convenient to your lifestyle
- Decide whether you want to employ an agency or your own staff

How do I know I am eligible?

Your first point of contact should be your local social services, who will send a social worker to assess your care needs. Provided they find that you are eligible to receive help from social services, you are then entitled to ask to receive direct payments to purchase your own care rather than social services providing the care.

Eligible individuals include:

- Older and disabled people age 16 and over, assessed as needing care.
- A person with parental responsibility for a child assessed as needing care.
- Carers aged 16 and over.

I'm not sure I can manage a direct payment on my own

As well as giving you the option of receiving a direct payment, social services will usually offer their own support services, or be able to refer you to a local support group, to help you set your care up. They may even be able to provide care for you whilst you arrange your own care. The type of services provided can be from a list of local domiciliary care providers to advice on writing your own job advertisements and employing your own staff. You are also entitled to enlist the help of a responsible individual of your choosing, which may be a close friend or relative, to help you manage the direct payment scheme.

The care provider I want to use charges more than my direct payment

As you are effectively purchasing your own services, if you so wish, you can add your own funds to your direct payment to purchase services above the value of your direct payment. This allows you not only to buy your care from the person or organisation you prefer, but also to buy services in addition to those you care assessment states, should you wish to. For further information on Direct Payments contact your local social services, or visit
